OBITUARY.

Charles D. Stone.
 Death came suddenly early Monday morning to Charles D. Stone, of William, an advertising agent in his room in the Winthrop hotel, New London. Death was due to a disease of the heart. Shortly after midnight Mr. Stone complained of not feeling well and asked for a physician. Upon arrival the physician found the man in a weakened condition. The case was diagnosed as heart trouble and despite restoratives which were administered by the physician, Stone died at 2:15, death occurring about six minutes after the arrival of Dr. Soltz. Stone is survived by his widow and two children, who reside in William, Conn.

Servus Cocoa is one cocoa the consumer will use and come back for. Lot of time and money has been spent in getting quality that was better than the so-called established cocoas. The only way to build up a cocoa business is to offer a little better quality than the other fellow has been selling. Servus Cocoa is not just as good as other cocoas, it is a least bit better than the acknowledged standard.

Servus Unsweet Chocolate is made at the same mills with Servus Cocoa and there is no better Premium Chocolate on the market. It has a flavor which will delight the houses and the housewife. Take a sample of the other chocolate on the market and compare the difference. If you don't like Servus better, don't buy it.

REPUBLICANS' CLEAN SWEEP
 Party Majority on Vote for Registrars is 272—Elect Every Candidate on Ticket—C. K. Bailey First Selectman, Defeating A. W. Lillibridge by 24 Votes—C. P. Bushnell Gets Second Place and Lillibridge Third—A. A. Beckwith, F. G. Prothero and Thomas J. Kirby Board of Relief—F. H. Woodworth and A. L. Hale Assessors—Taftville and Norwich Town Only Districts to Go Democratic.

Charles S. Holbrook, republican, who was on both tickets for town clerk and town treasurer, received 3,644 votes for the first office and 3,645 for the second, while Thomas A. Robinson, democrat, who was on both tickets for tax collector, received 3,644 votes. Their elections were of course certain.

Of the eight constables nominated four by each party, seven are elected. The one to lose was Dennis A. Donovan, democrat, who had just two less votes than Mayor Blumenthal, democrat.

The republicans elected the three assessors for the town deposit fund, but on the remainder of the ticket nomination by either party was equivalent to election and the regular party vote was cast.

But little interest was shown in the constitutional amendment, as only 335 ballots were cast for it both ways, of which 247 favored it and 188 were against.

The republicans took their victory quietly and there was no parade or section jubilation during the evening by the victors.

In First District.
 Although the weather could not have been more favorable for an election day the vote generally was a light one in the central district this was particularly so up to noon. At noon, however, the rush began and about 300 voted in that hour. The total vote last week in this district was completed the last man to vote was Alexander Carington. The first was Ashley T. Boen, who was followed by George W. Rouse and Matthew Brown. The first woman to vote was Louise M. Rogers. She cast her ballot two minutes after the polls had been opened at 6 a. m. Six women exercised their franchise on the choice of school board members.

The election officials here were as follows: Moderator, Edward T. Burke; checkers, Weston C. Pullen and Earl E. Mathewson; challengers, Lester Greenman and James F. Drew; machine tenders, David H. Wilson, Gustave E. Lawrence, Fred Tyler, Thomas McGroarty, J. H. Desmond and Michael Counihan; doorkeepers, Edward H. Tibbitts and John F. Sullivan.

Joseph J. Flinn operated the demonstration voting machine in the corridor of the town hall.

When the count was taken from the three machines in this district, it was 25 minutes; 592 votes were recorded on one machine, 517 on another and 355 on another.

In Second District.
 At the voting place at the Second district, which was in the West side station, there was trouble about opening one of the two machines, and a dozen ballots were used before it was opened. Town Clerk Holbrook and Machinists Boon and Coit opened it without trouble when they went there, finding that in closing it had not been pushed together tight enough to allow the removal of a pin.

The first man to vote in this district was George Elliott. One woman had voted up to 10:30.

The officials in this district were: Moderator, Stephen P. Coffey; checkers, Frank J. Boyce and John Vane; challengers, Andrew Galey and Thomas F. Murphy; machine tenders, Earl Sargent, John J. Parsons, Robert W. Mahoney, John J. Connell; door tenders, John O'Connell, John Williams.

In Third District.
 At the polling place in the Third district, Greenville, Albert C. Greene was moderator; James Mullen and William Holland, checkers; John F. Malone and Ira E. Barrett, machine tenders; M. Mahoney and Albert H. Marsh, challengers; and Edward Baggett and James Lundgren, door tenders.

In the Greenville district James Connors was named by Registrar to look after the deputy registrar's duties on account of the death of the previous deputy in the office, Timothy A. Carey.

The only woman to cast a vote in Greenville for members of the school board was Miss Hadie E. Blackstone. She went to the polling place at 6:55 with her father.

In Fourth District.
 In the Fourth district, Norwich Town, which was one of the two to go democratic, the polling place was in the old schoolhouse building, which is the home of the Noah Webster Club. The officials were: Moderator, Thomas Casey; checkers, John Dawson and John Houlihan; challengers, James W. Sterry and George Rooney; machine

CASPER K. BAILEY
 First Selectman

The republicans in the town election on Monday drove a wedge completely through the democratic ranks, came through on the other side, and then turned and ripped the opposition ticket up the back with a completeness that elected every republican candidate. On the vote for registrars of voters the republican party majority was 272.

Tyler D. Guy, republican, received 180, and Cornelius J. Downes, democrat, 157.

It was at the head of the ticket that the real struggle was looked for, as here Alderman Casper K. Bailey was running for first selectman against Albert W. Lillibridge, who had been firmly entrenched in the position since he was elected in 1902. At the polls in the five outlying districts closed at 2 o'clock, which was an hour before the closing in the first district, word reached the first district before 3 o'clock that Mr. Lillibridge was leading Mr. Bailey by 60 in all the other districts and interest centered in what the three machines in the first district would show for these two candidates. They gave Mr. Bailey 747 votes to 663 for Mr. Lillibridge, thus returning the republican the winner by 84 votes, 1325 to 1241.

Charles P. Bushnell, republican, with 1905 votes, was elected second selectman, and Mr. Lillibridge took third place with 1361. William R. Wilcox, who has been on the board with Mr. Lillibridge, failed to hold a place.

Only in the fourth and fifth districts, Norwich Town and Taftville, respectively, did the democrats have a majority for their ticket.

Frank W. Woodworth and Abbia L. Hale were elected assessors by majorities of 261 and 307 respectively, over Jeremiah J. Donovan and Joseph F. Williams.

A. A. Beckwith with 1955 and Fred G. Prothero with 1951 were the republican members of the board of relief elected with Thomas J. Kirby, 1833 votes, as the democratic member.

At the voting place at the Second district, which was in the West side station, there was trouble about opening one of the two machines, and a dozen ballots were used before it was opened. Town Clerk Holbrook and Machinists Boon and Coit opened it without trouble when they went there, finding that in closing it had not been pushed together tight enough to allow the removal of a pin.
